Policy on Handling of Good Till Cancelled (GTC) and Good till Date (GTD) Orders of client

- Supported Segments:
  - Clients can place GTC and GTD orders on all BSE- and NSE-listed securities
- Order Definitions & Validity:
  - GTC orders: Remain active until fully executed or cancelled by client.
  - GTD orders: Remain active until execution or until the specified expiry date, whichever is earlier
- Execution Channels:
  - GTC orders expire after 90 calendar days if not executed or cancelled.
  - GTD orders expire automatically on the selected expiry date but can be modified before expiry.
- Corporate Actions Handling:
  - Kellton Securities does not automatically adjust or modify GTC/GTD orders during corporate actions (e.g., splits, dividends, bonuses, rights issues).
  - Clients are solely responsible for reviewing, modifying, or cancelling their orders as needed.
- Client Responsibilities:
  - Regularly monitor and review outstanding GTC and GTD orders.
  - Maintain sufficient funds or margin to support pending orders at all times.
- Charges
  - There is no fee to place GTC/GTD orders; standard brokerage and taxes apply only upon execution.
- Liability Disclaimer
  - Kellton Securities rejects liability for any non-execution, cancellation, delay, or unrealized opportunity related to GTC/GTD usage.
  - The policy may be updated or withdrawn by Kellton Securities at its discretion—clients should review updates periodically on Kellton Securities website.
- Regulatory and Disclosure:
  - This policy is included in the Account Opening Kit under "Policy on Handling of Good Till Cancelled and Good Till Date Orders of Client" and is also available for public access on
